

FLORIDITA

GENERAL INFORMATION

Floridita is an exhilarating new West End venue launched in October 2004, owned by Conran Restaurants. The venue has a superbly unique layout, complete with a built-in stage. It's fabulous Soho address and spectacular list of cocktails, spirits, cigars and music; make Floridita London a very special location for high profile and select events. The Restaurant menu, developed by Executive Chef Andrew Rose, is a mouth-watering interpretation of cosmopolitan Cuban and Latin American cuisine. Total Capacity is 1000.

Drinks: With the inspiration and creativity of one of the capital's top barmen and drinks consultant Nick Strangeway, Floridita London's drinks list is an experience in itself and features cocktails from the early 1930's menu, as well as more contemporary creations as the "Pineapple and Sage Mojito" or the "strawberry and elderflower daiquiri".

Music: Cuba has always been at the forefront of Latin music culture, as illustrated by the global success of the Buena Vista Social Club.

The Floridita bar and dance floor, under the guidance of music producer Steve Brown, will resound on a nightly basis with the rich rhythm of live Cuban bands and spectacular cabaret, evolving later in the evening into more modern Cuban, Latin and international sounds, mixed by some of London's most respected DJ's.
